

Law of your Jungle

BALOO'S CAVE Beliefs & Values

The Adventure:

Wolves work better together. Mowgli had good friends in his pack who helped him in his adventures.

As a Pack, work out some expectations for one another. How can everyone in your Pack help one another to have great, safe Scouting adventures? When you have written down the Pack's Laws of the Jungle, every Cub Scout can show his or her support by adding his or her paw print (initials).

Safety note:

To decide on expectations for the Pack, you might need to think of some problems the Pack has had in the past. How can you talk about these times without hurting anyone's feelings?

Plan:

- When and where will you share this adventure? How much time will you take?
- How will the whole Pack contribute? Will you work together all at once, or use your Lairs and Howler Council?
- Who will write down the Pack's expectations?
- How many laws do you want to have?
- What will you do with the Pack's Laws of the Jungle after they are created?

Do:

- Compose your Pack's Laws of the Jungle. Add your paw print, and do your best to live up to your pledge.

Review:

- What do you know now that you did not know before?
- How hard was it to agree on your Pack's Laws of the Jungle?
- How did you come to agreement?
- When will you review the Pack's Laws of the Jungle to see if they are working?
- What would you do differently next time?
